

Wall Street Journal, Mansion Section, January 2018

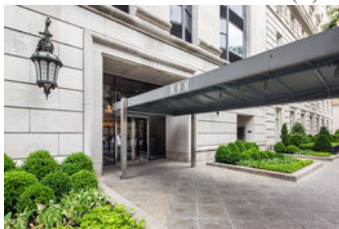

Midcentury Modern on the Market

Three homes for sale in Maryland, New York and Texas that were designed by or inspired by Midcentury Modern architect Philip Johnson.

By Sandra Ward

PHOTO: EVAN JOSEPH (2)

$1.55 million
Manhattan

One bedroom, one bathroom

This co-op apartment is on the third floor of the 1979 Philip Johnson-designed postmodernist building known as 1001 Fifth. The living room features a built-in dining banquet and the kitchen has gray-lacquered cabinetry and yellow-onyx countertops.

Agent: Frances Katzen, Douglas Elliman

PHOTO: JASON ANDERSON (2)

$23 million
Dallas

Six bedrooms, seven full bathrooms, four half-baths

This 1964 11,387-square-foot house, designed by Johnson in the Preston Hollow neighborhood, was restored and renovated between 2000 and 2008. The 6.45-acre property includes a media house, swimming pool and tennis courts.

Agent: Faisal Halum, Briggs Freeman Sotheby's International Realty

PHOTO: STEVEN MCNAMARA/HOMEVISIT (2)

$1.65 million
Gibson Island, Md.

Four bedrooms, three full bathrooms

Built in 1958, this lakeside glass house was designed by Yale-trained architect Avery Faulkner as an homage to Johnson. A wood-burning, see-through fireplace separates the living room and dining room. The living room features floor-to-ceiling sliding glass walls. A 2001 update added a second-story master suite.

Agent: Sarah Kanne, Gibson Island Corporation Real Estate